BEGIN TRIAL TO LEARN RENAKER'S SLAYER

GRACE NETTLETON HOME OCCUPIES WOMANS CLUB

Miss Jackson and Twelve Orphan Girls Give Program—Club Committee Appointed To Put On Drive Here.

RED ROSE TROOP SCOUTS TAKE PART IN PROGRAM

Miss Elizabeth Jackson and twelve little orphan girls appeared yesterday afternoon in program before the Woman's Club at the Booneway Inn to tell the story of the work Grace Nettleton Home and to let that story stand as reason why the good work should be continued.

Miss Jackson explained that there have been times when the future of the finances of the institution have bothered her but that so far she had been able to begin each new year without an overhanging debt of the year before. Again and again during her talk she thanked the people of Middlesboro for the many good things they have done for the home.

There is no denomination back of the home financially, she says, Mr and Mrs. F. E. Nettleton of Scranton founded the home in 1900 in memory of their daughter, Grace. A corporation was formed in 1904. The home and other resources valued at $27,000 were left the home at the death of Mr. Nettleton. An income of about 4 per cent is realized from these investments. The budget for a year now equals $7,000 the cost per girl is about $100 per year.

"There was one time last fall when a good meal," Miss Jackson says "I was notified that my bank balance was overdrawn. I had $5 in my pocket for two weeks and it isn't easy to provide for more than forty children.

"Our finances had run extremely low because of the unemployment of the fathers of some of the children who are in the home. About one-fourth of our budget comes from the parents of the children we are educating and the unemployment situation has made it impossible for many of them to meet these payments.

"When girls go out from the home they are able to sew, cook and serve a good meal," Miss —ackson says. "If they wish to go on to college arrangements are made to send them on. In the past the girls have been sent on the Elizabeth Winters scholarship fund."

At the close of Miss Jackson's talk the children gave an interesting program of Christmas carols and Bible verses. The Red Rose troop made a most impressive entrance at this point in the program in uniform, saluted, sang "America, the Beautiful" and read a report of the troop's work since organization. The secretary of the troop asked the Woman's Club to assist the girls in making a Christmas basket for the county farm.

The members of the Woman's Club appointed to put on the Grace Nettleton drive were: Mrs. F. D Hart, Jr., Mrs. J. R. Sampson, Mrs. John Miller, Mrs. Richard Ramey, Mrs. Lee Rennebaum, Mrs. Joe Ralston, Mrs. Richard Judy, Mrs. F. R. Whalin, Mrs. Jacob Schultz, Mrs. H. H. Saunders. S:. Kiwanians appointed to help are Dr. L. L. Robedtson, Major E. S. Helburn and Prof. J. W. Bradner.

Mrs. H. E. Heaton was elected chairman of the Msic Section of the Woman's Club to take the place of Miss Elizabeth Ellis who is leaving for her home in Texas. New members elected were: Mrs. C. T. Clelland, Mrs. Jim Callison, Mrs. H. R. Chandler, Mrs. Chas. L. Keegan, Mrs. S. Chambers, Mrs. Robert Mitchell and Mrs. J. L. Purcelul.

Near East Worker Here

CONFERENCE OF FARM COOPERATIVES

Meeting In Washington December 14-16 Of Representatives Of All Marketing Associations.

By Harry B. Hunt

Washington, Dec. 12—Co-operation among the co-operatives.

This is the aim of a conference to be held here December 14-16 by representatives of all national cooperative marketing associations Out of it is expected to come a new impetus to cooperative marketing among farmers.

The leaders of the co-operation movement are getting together in a national effort to work out means for its growth," says Charles M. Morgan, field representative of the American Cotton rGowers' Exchange who as secretary of the conference is in charge of arrangements "Particular attention will be given the subject of rural credits legislation. "Cooperative marketing has been spreading out at an amazing rate.

Growth of Movement.

"Two years ago there were no large tobacco cooperatives. This year the tobacco cooperatives will probably handle at least two-thirds of the American crop.

"There were no cotton co - operatives two years ago. This year 10 state organizations and the national organization, the American Cotton Growers' Exchange, are operating Three more state organizations are being organized and a tremendious volume of business handled.

"Nearly a dozen state wheat organizations and their overhead sales agencies are successfully functioning where a few years ago there were none

"All these in addition to all sorts of co-operatives for the handling of other farm products.

Benefits All.

Not only has the producer benefited by better prices wherever his product has been handled co-operatively, but the consumer has been likewise benefitted by a better and more uniform product at better prices"

One big weakness in the cooperative movement to date, Morgan says, was the fact that it had no national voice. There is no body, he points out, through whic hthe separate cooperatives could co-operate in a national way. That is what the Co-Operative Council, to be organized at the Washington conference will supply.

AARON SAPIro, San Francisco, general counsel.

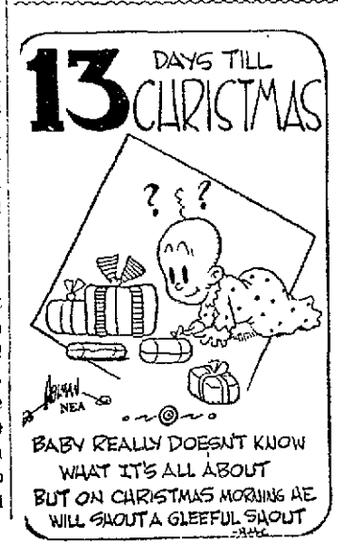
CLIFFORD V. GREGORY, Chicago, representing farm papers.

MILO A. CAMPBELL, Coldwater, Mich., for dairy farmers.

C. O. MOSER, Dallas, Tex., secretary American Cotton Growers' Exchange.

CHARLES M. MORGAN, Dallas, Tex., conference secretary.

MANNING DOUGHERTY, Toronto, Canadian minister of agriculture.



COMMANDER SEES U. S. FASCISTI IN AMERICAN LEGION

Col. Alvin Owsley Says Organization Stands Ready To Protect America From Onslaughts Of All Radicals.

CRITICISES IMMIGRATION POLICY NOW IN FORCE

By Edward Thierry.

New York, Dec. 12.—"If ever needed, the American Legion stands ready to protect our country's institutions and ideals as the Fascisti dealt with the destructionists who menaced Italy!"

Colonel Alvin Owsley, commander of the American Legion, made this statement today.

"By taking over the government!" he was asked.

"Exactly that!" declared Owsley. "The American Legion is fighting every element that threatens our democratic government—soviets, anarchists I. W. W's, revolutionary socialists and every other red.

"Should the day ever come when they menace the freedom of our representative government, the Legion would not hesitate to take things into its own hands—to fight the reds as the Fascisti of Italy fought them."

Owsley added: "But I do not think that time is ever going to come."

Calls Radical Menace Serious.

The Legion commander said the world spread of revolutionary doctrine had to be taken seriously. He said patriotic Italians had been forced to take extreme measures which probably would never be necessary in this country. But he emphasized the significance of what the Fascisti had done.

"Do not forget," he said, "that the Fascisti are to Italy what the American Legion is to the United States. And that Mussolini, the new premier, was the commander of the Legion—the ex-service men of Italy."

Commander Owsley's warning against the growth of anti-government creeds in America was based on the speeches he is making criticizing the immigration policy.

"The three per cent law has been a failure," he said. "Every 24 hours 1000 people come into this country. We are getting a big percentage of the riff-raff.

"Foreign-born people with foreign and anti-American sympathies, flood the country and are the leaders of industrial unrest—to say nothing of increasing the millions that compete with unemployed ex-service men for a chance to earn a living.

Wants Bars Put Up For Five Years.

"The American Legion favors a five-year exclusion policy—no immigration whatever, and after that careful selection on the other side; we want only those who waut to be Americans.

"And we are opposed to the plan of Venizelos, the former reGek prerer, to have a million or more of the Greeks and Armenians unloaded on our shores."

Declaring Lenin is one of the greatest and brainiest men in the world, Owsley said the Russian dictator also is the greatest menace to the sort of ideals the American Legion is trying to protect.

"The Legion is not in politics," he said; then added, with a grim smile; "But there is plenty of politics in the Legion—potential power. I mean.

"In every community - legionnaires are the substantial men in commerce, industry, farming, labor. Some are in office—and others will be if the right kind of real Americans are not elected without Legion interference!"

Merchants Meet Today

The Middlesboro Merchants Association will hold a meeting this afternoon from 3 to 4 o'clock. General business will be taken up. An effort will be made to have every member present., W. S. Anderson, president of the association, said today.

SALVATION ARMY ASKS DONATIONS TO FUND FOR CHRISTMAS FOR POOR

Beginning some time this week, the Salvation Army will make an effort to secure cast-off toys, children's garments, canned fruit and other things for the benefit of the poor of Middlesboro this Christmas. Those having anything to give are requested to make their donations to the Salvation Army at any time before Christmas.

It is the request of this organization that the food and other supplies be turned over to them for distribution this year so that each basket will contain the same assortment. Recipients of these gifts will each be investigated by members of the Salvation Army to determine whether or not the supplies are actually needed. Any case reported to them by the public will be investigated. The commandant says that he will be glad to cooperate with any church organization who is endeavoring to alleviate the sufferings of humanity.

Kettles will be placed on the street corners as usual this year for the receipt of money, also boxes will be placed in the stores. It is the aim of the Salvation Army to make this one of the happiest Christmas holidays that the poor of this vicinity has ever enjoyed.

ASK HOSPITAL TO TREAT POOR

Council Recommends Treatment at Patient's Home—Tax Readjustments Occupy Rest of Time.

Discussion of city hospital cases occupied a large part of the session of the city council last night. A committee was appointed by Mayor Keeney o confer with the authorities of the Brosheer-Brummett hospital to ascertain whether or not they would attend to indigent cases which do not require hospital treatment, for the annual sum paid them by the city.

Inasmuch as there are many cases which are not sufficiently serious to require hospital treatment and which could be treated more economically at the patient's home, the mayor recommended that the hospital should attend to these cases. Most of the aldermen present agreed with him on this point.

The question of tax readjustments of the Virginia Iron and Coal company was discussed. In view of the fact that the plant is not in operation, members of the council voted to readjust the taxes as first assessed.

Reports of the city tax collector, treasurer and chief of police were made and approved by the members. A number of minor tax adjustments were voted.

BOX CAR BETWEEN WILD CAR AND LOAD OF POWDER SAVES TOWN OF WALLINS

HARLAN, Dec. 12—An explosion which might have completely blown up the town of Walling Creek and shaken the whole country around was narrowly averted Thursday afternoon when a car load of ballast broke loose above the town and would have crashed headlong into a car of powder at Wallins but that a box car stood on the track between them.

The car of ballast was being set in the switch of No. 2 mine of the Banner Fork Coal Company but, when released from the engine, it split the switch, going onto the main track, which is considerably down grade. As the car began to gain speed, the brakeman, realizing that it was beyond his control, jumped, and left it going faster and faster, until it struck an empty box car which happened to be standing between it and a car of powder on the Wallins track. The box car was completely demolished and the end was knocked out of the car of powder, but there were no further damages. The ballast car traveled about three miles.

ELKS MINSTREL IS GREATLY ENJOYED

Cumberland Quartette Particularly Good—Dancing and Singing All First Class.

One of the most enjoyable amateur entertainments to be seen here in a long time, is the general pronouncement to be heard here today in regard to the Elks' Minstrel given at the Mauring Theatre last night under the direction of Gov. Bowen. The house was filled almost to capacity for the performance, many persons attending from out of town.

The choruses were good all the way through the program, and several of the comedians, soloists and dancers deserve particular praise. T. R. Hill, as interlocutor took his part very well too.

J. B. Dickey, singing "There's Silver in Your Hair," was very good. Eddie Laermont won much applause for his song dance, "Strut, Miss Lizzie," and R. B. Hatfield, "Dapper Dan," received the acclamation that is always his in a song act. Bill Smith and John Ausmus scored heavily as comedians.

Miss Dorothy Euster, youthful toe-dancer, gave a pretty interpretative dance with her doll during intermission and the Cumberland quartette, composed of Bill Smith, R. B. Hatfield, Warren Seale and C. G. Smyth, sang several greatly appreciated selections. Miss Adrianna Bracci could not sing because of a cold.

The last act was the "back porch campaign with John Ausmus as political candidate, while his followers, the prohibitionists, and the suffragettes were ushered in in turn by a drum corps. As a finale the parties all came together and after some fancy steps by different members of the chorus, T. W. Watts gave a dance exhibition. The act closed with a dance by Gov. Bowen, director, who was end man for Al G. Fields many years and who showed all of the amateurs a thing or two about minstrel dancing.

The orchestra, composed of C. O. Brown, H. J. Batts, Ernest Whrren, R. D. Knight, T. W. Watts and Philip Keeney, played exceptionally well and added a great deal to the success of the evening.

WOUNDED VETERAN GOES TO VISIT DISABLED BROTHER

Mrs. Rosie Edwards and brother, Jesse Crump of Louisville spent yesterday with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Carter on their way to Johnson City to visit another brother who is ill in a hospital there. Jesse Crump is the man mentioned in the Courier-Jornal recently as having received $3721 in government compensation money, one of the largest sums ever paid in compensation. Crump is almost paralyzed from wounds received in the war. The brother in Johnson City has tuberculosis contracted during service and Mrs. Edwards and Crump plan to take him back to Louisville with them if he is able to be moved.

STATE WOULD PROVE SCOBEE HARDMAN SLAYER

Dead Man's $50,000 Insurance and Accused Alleged Intimacy With Mrs. Renaker Reason— Defense Calls Robbery Motive.

WILL SHOW "HIGHEST AND CLOSEST" LOVE OF RENAKER

By Associated Press.

WINCHESTER, Dec. 12.—County Attorney Moore, opening the case for the prosecution in the trial of Scobee Hardman, charged with the murder of Leon Renaker, today asserted the murder of Renaker in cold blood was done for gain and that the question of who committed it would be answered by the Commonwealth by circumstantial evidence. "For the midnight assassin was not seen," he said. He sketched the scene after Mrs. Renaker's return from Cincinnati, notified passers-by that Renaker was dead and pointed out certain alleged discrepancies in Hardman's story of his whereabouts the time the murder was committed.

"We will show for his motive," he said, "that Renaker had over $50,000 insurance, that he was seen frequently with Mrs. Renaker, and that the murderer had his way prepared for him. Our evidence is circumstanital but every link is in the chain." Judge Moore for the defense indicated that Renaker was slain for the purpose of robbery and when his pocketbook was examined at least two $50 bills were missing. He asserted the Renakers were happily married, that they had made wills in favor of each other and asserted "we will prove the highest and closest love between Renaker and his wife."

The defense will prove, Judge Hays asserted, that Renaker was followed home on the night he probably was slain. He went to his store with a heavy-set man and that he later was followed home by two men, none of whom are indicted. He declared there were many discrepancies in th eState's case relative to the whereabouts of both Hardman and Reese Fox on the night of the killing and asserted that Mrs. Renaker was guiltless because she was in Cincinnati on that night. Mrs. Renaker at this point wept. Matt Penn was first witness for the prosecution. He and the coroner held the inquest together. He described the position of Renaker's body and said Renaker was killed by a blow. He saw blood on the window curtain and said in his opinion Renaker had been dead twenty-four hours.

A THOUGHT

Be not dismayed; for I am thy God; Fear not thou; for I am with thee: I will strengthen thee, yea, I will help thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness,—Isaiah 41:10.

No consecrated absurdity would have stood its ground in this world if the man had not silenced the objection of the child.—Mischelet.

AMERICAN INDIVIDUALISM

"American Individualism," is the title of a book of 72 pages written by Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, and just off the presses of Doubleday, Page and Co., and here are some excerpts:

Our individualism differs from all others because it embraces these great ideals; that while we build our society upon the attainment of the individual an equality of opportunity to which his intelligence, character, ability and ambition entitle him; that we keep the social solution free from frozen strata of classes; that we shall stimulate effort of each individual to achievement; that through an enlarging sense of responsibility and understanding we shall assist him to this attainment; while he in turn must stand up to the emery wheel of competition.

We have learned that impulse to production can only be maintained at a high pitch if there is a fair division of the product.

We in America have had too much experience in life to fool ourselves into pretending that all men are equal in ability, in character, in intelligence and in ambition.

That our system has avoided the establishment and domination of class has a significant proof in the present administration in Washington. Of the 12 men comprising the president, the vice president and cabinet, nine have earned their own way in life with economic inheritance, and eight of them started with manual labor.

Progress of the nation is the sum of progress of its individuals. Acts and ideas that lead to progress are born out of the womb of the individual mind, not out of the mind of the crowd. The crowd only feels it has no mind of its own with which it can plan.

There is developing in our people a new valuation of individuals and of groups and of nations. It is a rising of vision service.

Our American demand of equality of opportunity is a constant militant check upon capital becoming a thing to be feared.

Our government's greatest troubles and failures in the economic field

To curb the forces in business which would destroy equality of opportunity and yet to maintain the initiative and creative faculties of our people are the twin objects we must attain.

COMING BACK,

Doubtboys who remember the terrific devastation they saw in France, will be especially interested to learn that France is steadily getting the damages repaired.

It is important news to all of us that France is more than halfway back to normal. Why important? Because our prosperity depends to considerable extent on Europe's comeback and France is as much a key nation, as eGrmany, to the general European situation.

For instance, 741,883 buildings in France were destroyed or suffered serious damage. The French government reports that nearly 500,000 of these buildings had been rebuilt by September 1, the date of the last check-up. Later figures are not available, since it takes several months to round up the information.

And, of the 22,900 French factories destroyed in the war, 20,000 had been rebuilt September 1.

About 5,000,000 acres of French farming land were rendered unfit for cultivation by battles. Nearly 4,000,000 of these have been cleared of the shells, leveled and again are bearing crops.

The war trenches totaled 436,240,000 cubic yards of earth excavated and about 365,000,000 cubic yards have now been filled in.

Barbed wire entanglements at the close of the war totaled 440,105,000 square yards. Doughboys wondered how the French would ever manage to coil the wire. Well, 341,000,000 square yards of wire entanglements have been coiled and removed.

And over a million abandoned shells have been gathered up and destroyed or stored.

France loafing on the job? That's ridiculous. The French have been as active as ants, at repairing the damages of war.

Damages in the French devastated regions, according to French officials estimates, totaled 102,000,000,000 francs. France has spent 44,000,000,000 francs repairing the damages, and on this account Germany has paid $4,000,000,000 francs. These are the French government's figures.

The devastation of France as revealed by these statistics, is almost beyond human imagination's grasp.

If we'd had similar destruction in America, no doubt we would be foaming at the mouth and generally acting emotionally in a way that other countries would find hard to understand. All this must be kept in mind, in judging the present French attitude.

WHERE GOSSIP WOULD DIE

An Associated Press man in London has discovered an interesting old inscription over the door of Lloyd George's new residence in Chelsea:

"Let no one bear beyond these threshold words uttered here in friendly confidence."

If that adjuration were inscribed over every door and strictly obeyed wars, neighbors' quarrels, divorces, lawsuits, even murders and assaults, would be greatly reduced in number. The ball of evil talk would have no path in which to roll.

In fact, if everybody stopped telling what he heard in his friend's house in "confidence" there would soon be no rumors or slanders. Gossip would die in the place where it was born.—New York Herald.

ON OUR BRAIN FROM NOW ON

Berton Braley's Daily Poem

PERFECTLY SIMPLE

By Berton Braley

The experts and professors and economists have made
The Study of the Workingman a science and a Trade.
They've written many volumes in a deep and learned style,
And doped out charts by millions and statistics by the mile,
And thus they've made the Working man a Problem and a Question
While he's just a Human Being with a heart and digestion!

His father was a man and a woman was his mother,
And if you treat him fair, like a Man and a Brother,
And before he learned to walk he had to crawl;
He isn't any Problem at all!

Down deep beneath the theories and learned dissertations,
The studies by Commissions and long investigations,
We find the Labor Problem is the Problem of a man
Who wants to get such comfort and pleasure as he can,
He's neither very stupid nor particularly wise,
But he wants some fun in living ere he withers up and dies!

He has his hopes and dreams which oppression cannot smother,
He clings to them whatever may befall,
But treat him fair and square, like a Man and a Brother,
And he isn't any problem at all!

He's not a mere Commodity, but human flesh and blood,
Like every other mortal since the season of the flood,
And—in spite of some exceptions—what he generally asks
Is, no more than decent wages for his not-too-easy tasks;
For a decent, healthy living which his family can share,
And—if honestly considered—that is not any more than fair!

Oh the Workingman is Folks—just the same as any other
That you'll find upon this planetary ball;
So treat him fair and square, like a man and a Brother,
And he isn't any Problem at all!

CUT DOWN BORDER LIQUOR SMUGGLING

By Associated Press

Brownsville, Tex., Dec. 3—The new tariff law, recently passed by Congress, providing stricter penalties than those imposed under the prohibition enforcement act, is gradually eliminating drug smugglers and bootleggers along the Rio Grande according to prohibition enforcement and customs officials here. Possession of contraband are now being held amenable to the enforcement provisions of the new act, the officials added.

Among the many methods used to smuggle liquor across the river, when it is too high to wade, is for the smuggler to fill a hog or beef bladders with mescad, tequila or other Mexican intoxicants and tow them behind him. If he is observed, he merely leaves go of the tow which floats on down the stream to be recovered later. Boats, the officers asserted, are rarely used, although several persons have been caught crossing the river with tubs filled with contraband.

Nature, in the winding course of the river with water so shallow in many places that it can be waded, has presented obstacles which make law enforcement extremely difficult declare the officials and which persons, other than those living near the Mexican border, do not realize.

The route, by highway from Mission to the mouth of the Rio Grande is about 100 miles, while the distance by water is more than 500 miles. The greater part of this distance the river flows between tree and dense brush covered banks. The smugglers know the windings of the river, the hundreds of cowpaths leading through the brush and by continually changing the landing places make their detection difficult.

THE ONE-MAN WOMAN.

By Ruth Agnes Abeling.

There were no tears. There was no regretting. There was no trying to drag back his soul—to keep it earth bound.

"Goodby!" It was her one word to him departing; one gently spoken word and then she turned back to the world with its trunks to pack, its food to buy and its living to make.

Dan Ward was dead.

It was like Kate Ward to close the book, silently, fearlessly and go back to life without any rebellion at the increase in its complexities.

She might have wished for a moment as she turned away from the mound of loose sod that for her, life would hold no more tomorrows.

But the tomorrows were there. They must be lived.

And, more than that, she had had her hour of paradise. Together they had found it. What if she did have to grope back alone? One can't ask too much of life.

Kate Ward busied herself with her trunk and grips. There wasn't much to pack. And with his fitful gallivanting through life her husband had left no cause for legal procedure.

The taxi was waiting. Mrs. Ward settled in the corner of the vehicle.

The station was easily a mile distant. Then there was an all-night ride.

She wondered what the little town would look like when she reached it.

The little green station — she remembered almost every initial cut in its door frames. And the streets — wide, shady streets, with trees and grasses and friendly dogs trotting leisurely.

And then, back there, way over at the edge of town, near the path which wound out toward the cemetery, was the little house! Ah, such a little house! Rainwashed sides to which vines clung affectionately. Windows with small friendly panes, behind which white curtains fluttered. A roof, low and sloping, which held close communion with fragrant branches of two giant pines. A little fence with a gate which invited.

As the tram rumbled through the night Kate Ward, awake, staring into the darkness of the curtained area of her birth went back over the years. She remembered the day she had started out of the gate to school, so glad, so gay and so little.

And the high school days — those madly happy days, she remembered them all, even the day she came back and walked up the path carrying a sorry little satchel with her few clothes, remnants of her first summer in the city. She had come back then—back home, where there was air to breathe and folk to trust.

Her mother stood in the door that noon.

"What, you back?" she said.

That was 12 years back.

Kate wondered vaguely, half fearfully, what lay ahead of her now.

Adventures of The Twins.

By Olive Roberts Barton

"Here," he said handing it to Nancy. "Give him this."

"We met Wally Woodchuck today," said Nancy to the Green Wizard.

"And what does he want?" asked the kind fairy gentleman, knowing how greedy Wally was and how he had always wanted something.

"He says there is to be a picnic in Bright Meadow and everybody is asked. And he is going to be in the fat man's race and wants you to send him a charm so he'll win the prize."

"Humph!" exclaimed the Green Wizard. He hadn't lived in the tree tops for a hundred years or more for nothing. He had seen enough of Wally and his ancestors to know that they were as lazy as all get out—if you know how lazy that is.

"Aren't you going to give it to him?" asked Nick, "He'll be disappointed if you don't."

"Like all selfish people," declared the wizard a bit crossly. "That's why he is so fat. He never does anything for anybody but himself. Well, I suppose I'll have to send him some sort of a charm, but I'll send him some good advice along with it."

He went to his cupboard and took out a small object that looked like a stone. "Here," he said, handing it to Nancy. "Give him this and tell him it won't work unless he runs 10 miles before breakfast every morning and lives on one meal a day until the time of the race. Also he must work more and stop sleeping so much."

A week later a whistle sounded below the tree where the Green Wizard lived. Nancy and Nick who were helping and the kind fairyman looked down and there was Wally, as thin as a rail, but looking very happy.

"I won! I won!" he cried. "They put me in the thin man's race instead of the fat man's and I won. Do you want your charm back, Mr. Wizard?"

The Green Wizard laughed. "You may keep it, Wally," he called. "It is nothing but a plain stone. You won the race yourself."

Song For "The Lamp And The Bell"
(Yale Review.)

Feat me a crown of bluer metal,
Fret it with stones of a foreign style;
The heart grows weary after a little
Of what it loved for a little while.

Weave me a robe of richer fiber,
Pattern its web with a rare device;
Give away the child to a neighbor
This gold crown I was glad in twice.

Put buy me a singer to sing one song—
Song about nothing—song about sheep—
Over and over, all day long;
Patch me again my threadbare sleep.

Good Manners

While the well-bred hostess always does her utmost to set at ease a guest who arrives late for a dinner engagement, yet tardiness on such an occasion cannot but cause her serious inconvenience.

Therefore it is classed among the gravest of social offenses.

The reason for it must be an excellent one to constitute a real excuse.

TODAY'S RECIPES

SALAD

By Bertha E. Shapleigh, of Columbia University

This salad is to be arranged individually and for each service the following ingredients will be needed:

3 heart leaves of lettuce
6 white grapes, seeded
1-4 cup celery, cut into small pieces
1-2 apple pared, and cut into thin slices
1-2 green pepper, parboiled, and cut into strips
1-2 tomato cut into eighths
2 tablespoons oil
1 teaspoon vinegar
1-4 teaspoon sugar
1-8 teaspoon pepper

Mix white grapes, apples and celery, mix oil, vinegar, salt sugar and pepper. Pour over the fruits, separately, and serve in lettuce leaves. Pass mayonnaise. And attractive arrangement is to put the grapes, celery and apple mixture into one lettuce leaf, the tomatoes in a second, and peppers in the third. Arrange these in plate, having the stems of the leaves toward center. In this center place a spoonful of mayonnaise.

Don't Start Too Late!
A man was running hard to catch a car. He was almost ready to swing aboard when the car started forward and the conductor closed the door.
A friend who was near him said: "John, you didn't run fast enough." "Yes, I did run fast enough," he replied, "but I didn't start soon enough."
And that will be the story of a lot of folks who put off saving money until they are well along in years. They may save as fast as they can but they will find they did not start soon enough.
A dollar saved by a child will grow into several dollars before old age comes. That is why we urge all young people to learn to save money.

OKLA. GOVERNOR GOES ON TRIAL

Robertson Indicted For Bribery With Others—Confident He Will Be Vindicated.

Ada, Okla., Dec. 12—Charges of a death threat, political persecution and sinister influences are expected to be aired in the county court here, this week, when Governor J. B. A. Robertson goes on trial before Judge Thomas A. Edwards on a charge of accepting a bribe.

Governor Robertson was indicted last March by the Okmulgee county grand jury charged with accepting a bribe to permit the Guaranty State Bank, declared insolvent, to continue in operation. Fourteen others were indicted among them, Fred G Dennis, former state bank commissioner

James Hepburn, Okmulgee county prosecuting attorney, declares he has evidence not only to prove the governor's guilt, but to show that his life was threatened on account of his connection with the case.

Governor Robertson denies all of Hepburn's charges, and has expressed certainty of complete vindication.

SUPERINTENDENTS MEET THIS WEEK

By Associated Press.

Frankfort, Dec. 11—The program for the annual midwinter meeting of county school superintendents, which will be held here December 14, 15 and 16, has been announced by George Colvin, state superintendent of public instruction. The superintendents will gather here December 14, for a round-table discussion of school problems The regular sessions of the conference will begin the following day at the Capitol, according to Mr. Colvin.

One of the questions to be taken up during the meeting will be the shortage of teachers and the superintendents will try to arrive at some solution to this problem, according to Mr Colvin City boards have been oblue to secure competent teachers, he said, but the county boards have experienced real difficulty in filling the places at their disposal

STOP CATARRH! OPEN NOSTRILS AND HEAD

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Relieves Head-Colds at Once.

If your nostrils are clogged and your head is stuffed and you can't breathe freely because of a cold or catarrh, just get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage of your head, soothing and healing the inflamed, swollen mucous membrane and you get instant relief

Ah! How good it feels. Your nostrils are open, your head is clear, no more hawking, snuffling, blowing; no more headache dryness or struggling for breath Ely's Cream Balm is just what sufferers from head colds and catarrh need. It's a delight

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ-destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness

You do not have to wait for improvement It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.

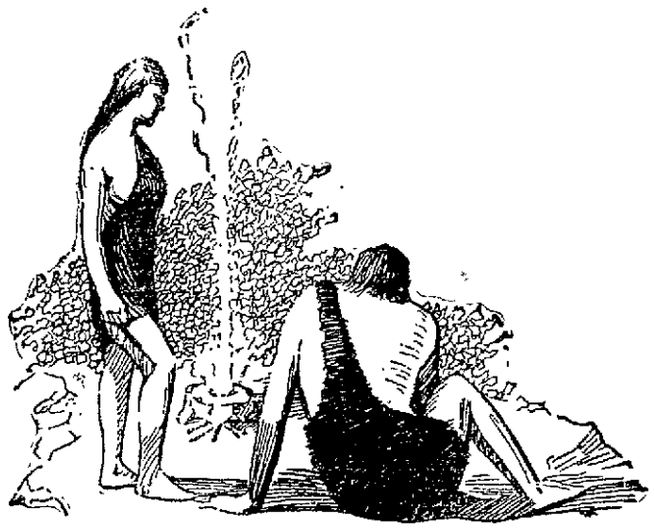
If Back Hurts Flush Kidneys

Eat less meat, also take glass of Salts before breakfast occasionally.

Too much meat may form uric acid, which excites the kidneys; they become overworked; get sluggish, ache and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person-shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region; you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to help neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus often ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in correcting kidney trouble while it is only trouble.



Primitive Man Brewing Herbs

The savage caveman sought for an elixir of life to give him strength, endurance and physical power to resist disease. He grubbed and culled from nature medicinal herbs and plants to relieve and restore him in time of sickness—he found no elixir of life.

But the savage and caveman of the past left to mankind his valuable herb and plant discoveries.

Away off in Oriental Europe in the famous Balkans live a race of people called Bulgarians, who consider themselves still young at 60, and only in their prime at 80. Thousands live to be over 100 years. Sickness and disease is almost unknown among them.

For many centuries the Bulgarians have relied upon nature to keep them hale and hearty. They use an herb tea composed of roots, barks, leaves, herbs, plants and flowers.

This Bulgarian Herb Tea when brewed and taken hot at bedtime aids nature to remove the dangerous poisons from the system Freshens and improves the blood, tones and stimulates the liver, and keeps the stomach and bowels in a healthy condition Bulgarian Herb Tea was first introduced in America about twenty years ago by H H Von Schlick of Pittsburgh, Pa Its fame has been so great that today it is used the world over and praised by millions of sufferers fighting disease and warding off old age weaknesses They include happy girls budding into womanhood or women crossing precarious threshholds of life

For centuries the Bulgarians have used this famous herb tea for nearly every human ill

To break up colds quickly, a cupful taken hot at bedtime gives splendid results Its gentle laxative qualities aid nature to relieve constipation, indigestion, biliousness ,stomach and bowel trouble.

Just ask your druggist today for a trial package of Bulgarian Herb Tea, and you will never regret the time you spent in reading this item

❖ "CRAZY WHISKEY" MAKES ❖ NEGROES SHOOT UP ❖ TOWN SATURDAY NIGHT ❖

"Crazy whiskey" is responsible for the shooting on the corner of Nineteenth street and Cumberland avenue last Saturday night, according to the admission of Cecil Shelton and Charlie Bales, colored in police court this morning.

"Dat stuff jest drove us plumb crazy, jedge, we didn't know what we wuz doin' when we fired our pistols," one of the dusky prisoners answered.

On being asked where they obtained the beverage containing the extraordinary kick, they described the vendor as being a white man "with long red whiskers all over his face."

The shooting prompted by the "crazy whiskey" cost the men $24.25 each.

Ewing Notes.

J. H. Kincaid, of Leesburg, Va., is visiting relatives at Ewing and Rose Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Rowlett and family spent Saturday night visiting in Middlesboro.

Dr. J. H. S. Morison of Cumberland Gap was here Saturday on his way home from Rose Hill where he was called to see M. S. Kincaid who is suffering from bronchitis.

Dr. G. C. Sumpter was a business visitor from Rose Hill Monday.

J. W. Powers, fur dealer, of Coeburn, Va., was in this vicinity Saturday.

J. T. Caldwell and F. C. Caldwell, who have been dealing in lumber in and around Ewing for about three years, left Monday to take up a contract on some timber in the Mingo Hollow section, near Middlesboro. They have made many friends in their stay here, and the people of Ewing regret that their business takes them away.

Don't Let This Happen To You, Girls!

Ten more Christmas shopping days—
"Oh, that's lots of time;
I'll wait until tomorrow."
Then there were nine.

Nine more Christmas shopping days—
"Too bad it is so late,
Had planned to shop a bit today,"
Then there were eight.

Eight more Christmas shopping days—
"I ought to, but, good heaven!
My head aches, so I'll stay at home."
Then there were seven.

Eeven more Christmas shopping days—
"Today I'm in a fix,
A lot of company due to come."
Then there were six.

Six more Christmas shopping days—
"Downtown was a hive!
I looked around and then came home."
Then there were five.

Five more Christmas shopping days—
"Looks like it will pour;
I'll wait until the weather clears."
Then there were four.

Four more Christmas shopping days—
"I'd go now, but dear me!
Too late to draw some funds from bank."
Then there were three.

Three more Christmas shopping days—
"Oh, well, my needs are few;
I'll buy them all tomorrow."
Then there were two.

Two more Christmas shopping days—
"And I have not begun!
Well, really, I've no time today."
Then there was one.

One more Christmas shopping day—
"I'll make it on the run."
But when she went to buy her gifts—
Believe me, THERE WERE NONE!

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND NEVER SUSPECT IT

Applicants For Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record for success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer and Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.

Was it the voice of the dead that spoke that night to Kate Ward, alone on a park bench?

Kate, beautiful young widow, had heard that her husband had been untrue. The whole happiness of her life depended on her learning the truth of that statement.

The unseen voice spoke. "Find the trunk. Find the man called James."

Kate set forth and found them both—and learned the secret she sought.
